Closed captioning services encompass the transcription of audio content into synchronized text displayed on screen, primarily to ensure accessibility for deaf and hard-of-hearing audiences, though they also serve broader functions such as improving comprehension in noisy environments, aiding language learners, and enhancing SEO for video content. These services range from manual transcription by human captioners, which offers higher accuracy especially for complex audio like technical jargon or multiple speakers, to automated solutions using speech recognition technology that provide faster turnaround at lower cost but may require post-editing for quality assurance. The industry caters to diverse media formats including broadcast television, streaming platforms, live events, corporate videos, and educational materials, with compliance often driven by legal mandates such as the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) regulations, alongside growing voluntary adoption due to rising digital content consumption and inclusivity initiatives.

The global Closed Captioning Services market size was estimated at USD 520.75 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.20% during the forecast period.
