Automobile Engine & Parts Manufacturing in the US

Starting up: Automobile engine manufacturers have had a harrowing five years, with the automotive sector's poor performance directly affect demand for engines. The industry will improve over the next five years, as firms develop more energy-efficient technologies. Nevertheless, firms will face greater competition from electric vehicles, which do not rely on gasoline engines.

Companies in this industry manufacture motor-vehicle gasoline engines and related parts including valves, pistons, crankshafts, camshafts, fuel injectors and pumps. This industry does not include hybrid engines, electric vehicle (EV) motors or diesel engines.

This report covers the scope, size, disposition and growth of the industry including the key sensitivities and success factors. Also included are five year industry forecasts, growth rates and an analysis of the industry key players and their market shares.
