Watermark packaging service refers to the application of digital or physical watermarks?unique identifiers, logos, or patterns?onto product packaging materials during the manufacturing or customization process, serving both aesthetic and functional purposes such as brand authentication, anti-counterfeiting measures, traceability, and marketing enhancement. This specialized service integrates technologies like digital printing, laser engraving, or specialized coatings to embed these marks seamlessly without compromising packaging integrity, ensuring they are durable, tamper-evident, and often invisible under normal conditions but detectable via specific tools or lighting.
