Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Electric Functional Sofa competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations.In 2024, global production of electric functional sofas reached 13.5807 million units, with an average selling price of US$825.5 per unit. The average price for a single chair was US$477.62 per unit, and for a long sofa, it was US$1342.7 per unit. The gross profit margin was approximately 35%-40%. Smart sofas, driven by built-in motors, automatically adjust the backrest, footrest, or seat angle. Users can control the sofa's position via remote control, mobile app, or buttons. Some high-end models also feature massage, heating, and USB charging functions. Long sofas typically refer to sofas exceeding 2 meters in length that can accommodate three or more people sitting or lying down simultaneously. They are primarily fixed in structure or have simple manual adjustments, and come in various designs, including fabric, leather, and solid wood frames.Raw material price fluctuations: Among the many raw materials, fabrics, steel, wood, and foam are in high demand. Steel (functional iron frames) has a high technical barrier to entry, and its raw material costs account for over 80% of the total cost. Therefore, fluctuations in raw material prices directly affect the procurement costs of functional sofa manufacturers, thus impacting their profitability. Large-scale functional sofa manufacturers focus on the mid-to-high-end market: The low entry barriers in China's functional sofa industry have led to numerous brands of varying quality. Small functional sofa manufacturers are mostly concentrated in the low-end market, resulting in severe product homogenization.

The global Electric Functional Sofa market size was estimated at USD 11211.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.30%
