Abstracts

The volume growth of men's jeans slowed down slightly in 2010. This was partly the result of external pressure from rising labour and raw materials costs. Furthermore, the demand for traditional men's jeans has gradually declined, as younger consumers are in pursuit of new styles in fashion.

Euromonitor International's Men's Jeans in China report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level. It provides the latest retail sales data 2006-2010 and analysis by distribution format allowing you to identify the sectors driving growth. It identifies the leading companies, leading brands, and offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market. Forecasts to 2015 illustrate how the market is set to change.
