Abstracts

The global Men's Deodorant market size is expected to reach $ 14494 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 4.4% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Men's deodorant is a personal care product specifically formulated for men to control body odor, especially underarm odor, by inhibiting the growth of odor-causing bacteria. The formulation typically reflects male scent preferences, often featuring fresh, woody, or musky fragrances. In 2025, global Men's Deodorant production reached approximately 1868 million units, with an average global market price of around 5.6 US$/Unit. The production capacity of Men's Deodorant reaches 2300 million units, and the industry's gross profit margin is approximately between 30% and 50%.

The market demand for men's deodorant is driven by multiple factors, including a significant increase in men's awareness of personal grooming, higher requirements for neat appearance in the workplace and social settings, the popularization of a healthy and active lifestyle, a shift in product formulation towards mild, safe, and natural ingredients, and brands' targeted marketing based on men's consumption habits. As traditional gender role concepts fade, men's acceptance and frequency of use of grooming products continue to grow, driving deodorants to evolve from basic functional products into everyday consumer goods that integrate fragrance aesthetics, skin care, and lifestyle. At the same time, the development of e-commerce channels and innovation in niche categories have further lowered the barriers to entry, accelerating the penetration and upgrading of this category globally.

This report studies the global Men's Deodorant production, demand, key manufacturers, and key regions.
