The global ALD Coating Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 533 million in 2025 to US$ 815 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.4% from 2026 to 2032.

To address the problems of insufficient uniformity, incomplete coverage of complex structures, and limited precision in film thickness control in traditional coating technologies, atomic layer deposition (ALD) coating services have emerged. Since the principle of this technology was proposed in the mid-20th century and its industrial application was realized in the following decades, breakthrough progress has been made in the field of advanced materials surface engineering. Currently, ALD coating services have developed into a variety of technical routes, including thermal ALD and plasma ALD, and are widely used in semiconductor manufacturing, new energy batteries, optical devices, medical devices, and cutting-edge scientific research. They can achieve precise control at the atomic scale, providing core surface treatment solutions with ultimate uniformity and excellent step coverage capabilities.

ALD coating service, as a core technology of nanoscale surface engineering, plays an irreplaceable role in fields such as precision semiconductor manufacturing, new energy material development, and biomedical innovation. With the acceleration of technological advancements and localization efforts, China's ALD industry is expected to break through the barriers of the high-end market and achieve a leapfrog development from "following" to "competing on par" with international players.
