Abstracts

As an important raw material of penicillin (IG), potassium acetate has huge market in China, for Penicillin's high reliance on export. Besides, potassium acetate can also be used in PUF and VAC of which the markets expand year by year in China.

Though capacity of potassium acetate is very large in China, the output is much lower than capacity. So what is the current product production? Coupled with the economic recession last year, how do the influencing factors impact the industry? What are the situation of downstream industries in China at present? Any new opportunities?

To help you penetrate into this area, this report will deliver a detailed view on the potassium acetate industry in China, including price, production, producers, end use industries, competitive landscape as well as forecast, etc.
