The global Aluminium Sandwich Board market size is predicted to grow from US$ 5663 million in 2025 to US$ 7255 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 3.7% from 2026 to 2032.

Aluminum sandwich boards, also known as aluminum composite panels (ACPs), consist of two aluminum sheets bonded to a core material, typically made of polyethylene (PE) or fire-retardant (FR) mineral-filled core. These boards offer a combination of strength, rigidity, and low weight, making them suitable for a wide range of applications. Construction and Architecture: The construction industry is a significant driver of the aluminum sandwich board market. Aluminum sandwich boards are widely used in building facades, cladding, roofing, and signage applications. Their lightweight nature makes them easy to handle and install, while their durability and resistance to weather and UV radiation contribute to their popularity. Additionally, their aesthetic appeal and ability to be customized with various finishes and colors further drive their adoption in architectural projects.
