Abstracts

The global Plant-Based Meat Snacks market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of %from 2026 to 2032.

Plant-based meat snacks refer to meat substitutes made from plant-based raw materials and processed and usually used as snacks. The main ingredients of this type of product are mostly plant proteins such as soybeans, peas, wheat, and tofu, combined with various seasonings and spices to simulate the taste and flavor of traditional meat. Plant-based meat snacks not only meet the needs of vegetarians, but also are favored by more and more health-conscious consumers because of their low fat and calorie content.

This kind of snack can be presented in various forms, including but not limited to jerky, meat strips, meat crisps, etc., suitable for enjoying anytime and anywhere. Its production process usually includes steps such as extracting plant protein, seasoning, molding, baking or frying. Plant-based meat snacks can not only provide rich protein, but also rich in dietary fiber, vitamins and minerals, and have good nutritional value.

In addition, plant-based meat snacks also have advantages in environmental protection. Compared with the breeding and slaughtering of traditional meat, its production process can significantly reduce greenhouse gas emissions, water resource consumption and land occupation, which is in line with the concept of sustainable development. Therefore, more and more brands have begun to launch a variety of plant-based meat snacks to meet the tastes and needs of different consumers, including spicy, black pepper, barbecue and other options.
