The global Overhead Travelling Cleaner (OHTC) market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of %from 2025 to 2031.

OHTC is equipment mostly used in the textiles industry to remove the dirt and dust particles from the complicated production machinery. It blows the filtered atmospheric air through the narrow nozzle tubes to provide a high force of air which sucks the residual particles and fragments of textiles without making any harm to the machines. In addition, OHTC segregates dirt and waste material to remove the starch from yarn to provide maximum output to the machines.

The global overhead traveling cleaner (OHTC) market refers to the market for cleaning systems specifically designed for overhead traveling cranes and conveyor systems. OHTCs are mechanical devices that are used to remove dust, debris, and other contaminants from the surfaces of overhead structures, machinery, and equipment. The demand for OHTCs has been increasing due to the growing industrialization across various sectors such as manufacturing, logistics, automotive, mining, and food processing. Maintaining clean and hygienic working environments is essential for optimal operation, productivity, and safety in these industries. In terms of regional analysis, North America and Europe are expected to dominate the OHTC market, given the high industrialization levels and strict regulatory requirements. However, the Asia Pacific region, particularly countries like China, India, and Japan, is witnessing significant growth due to the rapid industrial development and increasing focus on workplace safety and cleanliness.
