Septic, Drain & Sewer Cleaning Services

Sinking in

Demand for septic, drain and sewer cleaning services will remain stable over the next five years, since the services are always needed. The industry derives a significant proportion of its revenue from state and local governments, so modest investment growth will support demand. Nevertheless, an increase in regulations will cause disposal costs to rise, hampering profitability.

This industry provides sewer cleaning services to municipalities, private landowners and industrial and commercial clients. Firms specialize in pipe cleaning and removing obstructions and hardened deposits from sewers.

This report covers the scope, size, disposition and growth of the industry including the key sensitivities and success factors. Also included are five year industry forecasts, growth rates and an analysis of the industry key players and their market shares.
