Abstracts

The commercial real estate brokerage and management market is expected to reach $424,406.0 million by 2030, from $209,901.0 million in 2020, registering a CAGR of 7.2% from 2021 to 2030. Commercial real estate brokerage management consists of properties such as industrial, land, flex, retail space, shopping complexes, and others. Brokerage management provides solutions such as valuation services, advisory services, lease management, and rental management. Brokerage consists of broker, intermediary who connect seller and buyer to conduct a transaction.

Rise in demand for technologies such as Big Data analytics, Artificial Intelligence (AI), and Internet of Things (IoT) in the commercial real estate management drives the growth of the commercial real estate brokerage and management market. The commercial real estate brokerage and management market is mainly driven by urbanization in developing countries. People from small villages and towns are migrating to cities to improve their living standards. Increase in industries around large cities has led to expansion of cities, which in turn, drives the demand for brokerage management services; thereby, fueling the growth of the commercial real estate brokerage and management market. In addition, governments of several nations such as the U.S. and Australia offer real estate loans at lower rates for long term and concession for first time home buyers, respectively, which in turn drive the demand for brokerage management services.

Major players such as Jones Lang LaSalle IP, Inc, Cushman & Wakefield PLC, and others are adopting acquisition as development strategy to improve the product portfolio of brokerage management services. For instance, in October 2020, Cushman & Wakefield Plc acquired PMP Tech, based in Taiwan deals in technology, services, and products related to commercial real estate brokerage management services. The acquisition was carried out for $98 million. The acquisition aimed to improve the product portfolio of brokerage management services.

Furthermore, saturation in developing countries and COVID-19 impact on commercial real estate industry are anticipated to hamper the growth of the commercial real estate brokerage and management market. Furthermore, expansion of new planned city in developing countries is anticipated to provide lucrative opportunities for the growth of the commercial real estate brokerage and management market.

Regionally, the commercial real estate brokerage and management market is analyzed across North America (the U.S., Canada, and Mexico), Europe (Germany, the UK, France, Italy, and rest of Europe), Asia-Pacific (China, Japan, India, Australia, and rest of Asia-Pacific), and LAMEA (Latin America, the Middle East, and Africa).
