Abstracts

The global vegan supplements market size was valued at $ 6,309.1 million in 2019, and is projected to reach $ 13,598.7 billion by 2028, registering a CAGR of 6.9% from 2021 to 2028. In past few years, many countries have recognized lifestyle-related diseases to be a main problem, which has led to rise in health consciousness among consumers. Rise in consumer awareness regarding health benefits associated with vegan supplements such as benefits against chronic diseases to promote optimal health, longevity, and quality of life fuels the demand for vegan supplements. Rise in aging population, increase in life expectancy rates, and growth in instances of chronic diseases have changed eating patterns of consumers. In addition, owing to busy lifestyles, consumers now look for vegan supplements, which directly provide them with essential nutrition and help them enhance their physical and mental wellness. All the aforementioned factors are expected to boost the market growth.

In the past few years, there has been an increase in the use of vegan supplements powder among consumers across the globe. Powders are highly soluble in nature, easier to handle, less bulky, and less prone to spoilage in long term storage. Thus, vegan supplement manufacturers are strategizing on extending production in powder form. Moreover, this powder is highly nutritious and free from artificial colors, flavors, and sweeteners. In addition, vegan supplement powder is available in various flavors such as vanilla, chocolate, berry, and others, which further result in boosting the growth of the market. Furthermore, surge in awareness regarding vegan supplement powder by the use of social media platforms such as YouTube, Instagram, Facebook, and others has further driven the growth of the vegan supplement market. The increase in penetration of various online portals in the developing regions and the rise in number of offers or discounts, attract the consumer to purchase vegan supplements through online channel. Moreover, online sales channel has increased the consumer reach owing to which it has evolved as a key source of revenue for many companies. Furthermore, the online sales market is expected to expand in the near future due to rapid growth in online and mobile user customer base in the emerging markets, which in turn boost the growth of the vegan supplements market.

The vegan supplements industry is segmented on the basis of product type, form, distribution channel, and region. By product type, it is classified into minerals, vitamins, protein, and others. By form, it is divided into capsules/tablets, powder, and others. By distribution channel, it is categorized into hypermarket/supermarket, specialty stores, pharmacies/drug stores, and online sales channel.
