Moreover, the report also includes scenario analysis depicting the subjective future predictions of the market. The report discusses the market share of major real estate developers in Indonesia along with the detailed explanation of the various macro and industry factors which are driving the growth of the market for these major provinces and segments of real estate market.

Indonesia property sector has shown robust growth owing to the country’s expanding middle class supported by a low interest rate regime and vigorous national economic growth. The primary reason behind escalation of the Indonesian property market stemmed from the surge in demand which was backed by higher consumer confidence. This has considerably grown owing to optimism towards the upcoming legislative and presidential elections in 2014

In the recent years, there has been an important shift which occurred in the larger cities of Indonesia such as Jakarta, Bandung and Surabaya. These cities are dominated by the presence of skyscrapers in the form of apartments and offices space where the Central business districts have seen the major property development. In Jakarta, the property market was so buoyant that in 2013, about ~ of all new real estate projects were sold before actual construction, transpiring the demand to exceed that of supply.

The Indonesia real estate market consists of residential, commercial, retail, hotel and industrial estate sectors. Among these sectors, the residential real estate sector has performed exceptionally well in response to increasing demand for luxury properties and mid size properties. This market was valued at USD ~ million in 2013 which has grown from USD ~ million in 2008. The market has inclined at a CAGR of ~ during the period of 2008-2013 with the major growth originating from Jakarta real estate market. A combination of strong domestic demand and low interest rate regime is considered to be the reason behind this growth which is expected to continue in the upcoming years.

In Indonesia real estate market, Jabodebek has been the largest segment in terms of contribution of area and revenues in the overall Indonesia real estate market.

Jabodebek residential sector is renowned as one of the brightest accommodation spots in Indonesia, which has emerged as the top investment destinations for the domestic investors. The city is mainly dominated by the luxury apartments which allures the elite class population of the country. In 2013, Jabodebek real estate market overwhelming growth was headed by the resilient economic growth and rising investor confidence which further propelled the real estate market to grow by 29.8% in 2013 and to register revenue of USD ~ million.

In Indonesia, online property portals are increasingly becoming a tool for research on buying, selling or leasing residential, commercial, retail and other kind of properties. The majority of the users in this market pertain to the age group of 45 years or younger, who usually buys property for their own use. The economy of Indonesia has showcased significant progress of private housing markets and market systems for financing home purchases. Financing decisions plays a foremost role in the real estate market, as real estate transactions involve a large amount of cash flows, which is usually funded by external sources.

The Indonesia property market will remain in a good shape with marginal fluctuations expected to occur during 2014 owing to economic and political fluctuations lying ahead. The prices for every segment have nearly doubled since the past three years in majority of the regions and will continue to augment in the short term future. Despite these the market in the future was likely to reach USD ~ million in 2018 and is projecting to grow at a CAGR of 9.6% during the period 2014-2018.

Indonesia real estate market has been primarily dominated by ten major real estate developers, accounting for ~ share in the total market revenues. The leading contributor to the Indonesia's real estate market is Lippo Karawaci, whose market share was recorded at ~ in 2013. The company has depicted an inclining share since 2008, owing to its impressive portfolio of innovative and quality projects. The other largest company, Bumi Serpong Damai has contributed ~ share in the Indonesia real estate market, followed by Ciputra development with a share of ~ in 2013.
