Abstracts

Hemato Oncology Testing is a technology to predict the probability of disease by collecting genes (DNA) in human blood and analyzing and measuring the complete sequence of genes. Genetic testing can identify individuals' genes for disease, thereby preventing or treating tumours earlier.

Hematologic tumor detection is a technique to detect tumor genes on the basis of gene detection. Blood tumor detection services cover a wide range of solid tumors such as lung cancer, breast cancer, stomach cancer, esophageal cancer, colorectal cancer and liver cancer. Common tumors are detected. According to different tumor stages, blood tumor detection can be divided into four categories: tumor susceptibility gene screening, tumor early diagnosis, tumor individualized drug diagnosis, and tumor recovery monitoring. Tumor susceptibility gene screening can help people at high risk of genetic mutations to actively prevent tumors. Early diagnosis of cancer can help patients to find the disease as early as possible, thus greatly improving the survival rate of cancer patients. Individualized drug diagnosis for cancer patients to provide a more accurate cancer treatment program. Tumor recovery was monitored to assess the risk of recurrence.
