Abstracts

Predictive maintenance is maintenance that directly monitors the condition and performance of equipment during normal operation to reduce the likelihood of failures. It attempts to keep costs low by reducing the frequency of maintenance tasks, reducing unplanned breakdowns and eliminating unnecessary preventive maintenance.

Predictive maintenance solution enables manufacturers to closely monitor machines with sensors and actuators embedded in the equipment. Using streaming analytics to continuously analyse sensor data and combine it with historical intelligence, this predictive maintenance solution is able to more accurately predict equipment failures and dispatch maintenance services only when they are needed. And some solution also take automated intelligent action to dispatch a part or schedule a technician, monitoring machine performance and field service technicians' task lists in real time for more dynamic scheduling. The result is lower technician costs, improved service levels and greater machine uptime—all contributing to improved profitability and product quality.
