In-depth Analysis and Data-driven Insights on the Impact of COVID-19 Included in this Global Fantasy Sports Market Report

The global fantasy sports market by revenue is expected to grow at a CAGR of approx. 14% during 2020–2026.

Digitalization is an essential factor that is driving the growth of the fantasy sports market. Consumers are currently connected with the outer world via digital mediums. An increase in smartphone use is a significant factor influencing the market across the globe. The global vendors prefer selling products/services via apps and online websites. The COVID-19 outbreak has led to the rapid growth in the number of gamers. Online gaming platforms have become one of the most used mediums for entertainment during lockdowns and restrictions. With respect to COVID-19 regulations, real-time sports events have witnessed a halt for few months, which affected the market negatively. However, vendors have come out with new versions, which boost engagements among audiences and provide the experience of leagues and clubs. Daily fantasy sports (DFS) have pushed vendors to focus on this attractive sports segment that draws large audiences. With more than 60 million players/users currently active in the US, the DFS model sets to grow significantly during the forecast period. Also, technological advances such as the combination of analytics and blockchain could completely disrupt the way the industry operates. With advertising monitoring, digital spending, technical upgrades, and online customer surveys growing, the fantasy sports market share is likely to observe promising growth during the forecast period.

The following factors are likely to contribute to the growth of global fantasy sports during the forecast period:

Growth in Worldwide Sports Events Count

A rise in Data Consumption

Development of Fantasy Sports Platforms

Rise in Female Participation in Sports
