Coconut Water Market in Europe - Overview

The low sugar content, high nutritional value, minimal processing, and several other health benefits are some of the major factors augmenting the growth of the packaged coconut water market size in Europe. The increasing adoption and proliferation of coconut-based products and the rising need for substitutes for carbonated drinks by consumers across the world will boost the demand for these drinks in the European market. The vendors are launching innovative beverage options by combining coconut water with conventional products such as tea, coffee, juices, and chocolate will help them attract new consumers in the European market. The promotion of premium beverage will help players to launch innovative product portfolios in the European market and expand their businesses to new regions. The growing preference for flavored and blend varieties will help companies launch innovative recipes in the European market and encourage the adoption of these products in the region.

The wide availability of these products in the various hypermarkets, supermarket, retail stores, and other distribution networks is creating lucrative investment opportunities for business expansion in the European market. The use of these products in juices and cocktail blends and increasing applications in gourmet food are expected to have a positive impact on the overall market in Europe. The coconut water market size in Europe is estimated to reach over $1 billion in 2023 and is expected to grow at a CAGR of approximately 22% during the forecast period.

Packaged Coconut Water Market in Europe - Dynamics

The declining demand for carbonated and other sweetened beverages is propelling the growth of the coconut water market in Europe. The exponential rise in the number of the health-conscious population is causing the paradigm shift in the beverage consumption pattern in the European market. The declining demand for fruit juices and nectar is primarily due to the high sugar content. The trend of consuming low calorie or no sugar drinks is expected to boost the sales of these healthier beverage options in the European market over the next few years. The unsweetened variants are the fastest growing products in the European market. The changes in consumption pattern and declining demand for aeriated beverages will contribute to the growth of the packaged coconut water market in Europe.

Coconut Water Market in Europe - Segmentation

This market research report includes a detailed segmentation of the market by variants, packaging, type, distribution, and geography.
