1. INTRODUCTION

China's breeding industry has increased dramatically recently. The total output of meat came to 86.25 million tonne, decreased 1.0%; the output of eggs achieved nearly 30 million tonne, increased 3.6%; the milk production was over 37 million tonne, increased 0.8%. The aquatic production was nearly 67 million tonne, increased 3.5%.

Compared with the foreign breeding industry, the gap in equipment, scale degree and efficiency between China and developed countries is large. The breeding products require high quality.

There were 23 listed breeding companies in 2015. The trends of China's breeding industry are industrialization and industrial chain. The companies should adjust operating strategy to develop large scale breeding and added value products.
