Executive Summary

The Global Cosmetics Market was valued at USD 307.69 Billion in the year 2020. The huge demand for cosmetics is influenced by awareness among people about benefits of cosmetics for their skin and hair which uplifted their average expenditure on cosmetics. Moreover, increasing trend for sun care products, night skin repair creams, fresh face mists is likely to boost demand for cosmetic products in future, hence, paving a way for the growth in the market during the forecast period 2021-2026.

Based on the Product Category segment, the skincare category is expected to grow the fastest during the forecast period. Many of the skin concerns such as pollution, sun protection, workplace stress reaching near-epidemic levels is driving the interest in skincare products. Moreover, there is a growing desire for health-promoting and self-care products, as well as the ability of social media to empower and inform consumers more quickly, and, perhaps most importantly, the ability of new technology to simplify the unusually complex choices consumers face when dealing with skincare brands. Asia Pacific region is estimated to be the fastest growing region in Cosmetics Market, due to growing concern over health and hygiene, personal appeal, and rising demand for natural and organic beauty products and many others. China, Japan, South Korea, India are the major cosmetics markets of the world.

Online segment is expected to grow at the fastest rate during the forecast period. The advantages of e-commerce have benefited not only businesses but also customers in terms of cost and a wide range of possibilities. Furthermore, the internet distribution method has attracted new customers with surging demand for cosmetics worldwide. The rising fashion and entertainment industries in major and emerging countries including the United States, France, and South Korea have boosted demand for cosmetics. While consumers in large metros are opting for online retail and e-commerce for most of their purchases, the trend is slowly penetrating in non-metro cities as well.
