Executive Summary

The market is driven by the rising consumption of processed food coupled with the burgeoning upsurge in the modern grocery retail sector.

Foodstuff Distribution Market has been growing at a moderate rate over the last five years on account of increasing per capita consumption of food, increasing penetration of modern grocery retail outlets, rising youth population, rapid augmentation in the production capacity of the local food processors, etc. During 2016-21, Foodstuff distribution in Vietnam is anticipated to grow at an increased rate on the heels of surging production coupled with augmenting imports of a varied range of food products. Moreover, escalating demand from various end use sectors such as hotels, businesses, etc. has been propelling the growth in the foodstuff distribution market in the country.
