About D-Box Technologies Inc.

D-BOX Technologies Inc. engages in the design and manufacture of high technology motion systems mainly suited to the needs of the entertainment industry. The company offers consumer products, such as home theatre and electronic gaming systems.

The company's patented technology, D-BOX Motion Code, uses motion codes specifically programmed for each film, TV program or video game, which are sent to a motion generating system integrated within either a platform or a seat, and results in motion synchronized with onscreen action. The company involves in the sale of motion systems, which consist of actuators built into a platform, a home or commercial theatre seat or a gaming chair; and a motion controller.

The company, in April 2009, has launched a motion picture incorporating audio, video, and motion (AVM) in two commercial theatres; The Mann Chinese 6 Theatre located in Los Angeles and the UltraStar Surprise Pointe 14 located in Surprise, Arizona.

Target Markets

The company's offerings target two separate markets: home entertainment, which includes home theatre and video games; and commercial entertainment, which includes movie theatres, entertainment rooms, such as those integrated to recreational or leisure complexes, and original equipment manufacturers.

Agreements

In November 2008, the company has signed an agreement with Black Box (an Electronic Arts Inc. studio), which allows for the combining of its D-BOX Motion Code technology to the PC version of this studio's 'Need for Speed Undercover' game.
