About TapImmune, Inc.

TapImmune Inc., a development stage biotechnology company, focuses on the development and marketing of products specializing in the application of discoveries in cellular and molecular immunology and cancer biology to the development of proprietary therapeutics aimed at the treatment and eradication of cancer and prevention of infectious diseases. The company's technologies are based on an understanding of the function of a protein pump known as 'TAP', which is located within cells and which is essential to the processing of foreign (microbial) or autologous antigens, and subsequent presentation to the immune system for eradication of the cancer or infected cell.

Products and Technology in Development

The company has developed its TAP Cancer Vaccine at the UBC Biomedical Research Centre under an agreement. This therapeutic cancer vaccine candidate, to be tested in preclinical toxicology studies, would include the patented use of the TAP-1 gene to restore the TAP protein, with the objective being to develop the TAP technology as a therapeutic cancer vaccine that would restore the normal immune recognition of cancer cells. The company has completed small animal pre-clinical animal testing of its TAP Cancer Vaccine to the extent that is required as a prerequisite for further preclinical toxicology analysis and investigational new drug (IND) application to the United States Federal Drug Administration.

Strategic Alliances

The company has entered into a five-year research license and option agreement with Crucell Holland B.V. (Crucell), whereby Crucell granted it a worldwide license for the research use of its packaging cell (PerC6) technology.

The company signed a license agreement with the National Institute of Health (USA) for the use of the Modified Vaccinia Ankara (MVA) virus for the development of vaccines. It would license this technology for the development of prophylactic vaccines against infectious diseases.

Competition

The company's major competitors include CellGenSys Inc., Dendreon Corp., Genzyme Molecular Oncology, and Transgene S.A.

Significant Events

In June 2010, the company has signed a licensing option agreement with Mayo Clinic Rochester for clinical development of a breast cancer vaccine technology.

On August 4, 2010, TapImmune, Inc. announced that the company has signed a research and technology license option agreement with Mayo Clinic Rochester for the development of a smallpox vaccine technology.
