About Voxcorp Inc.

Voxcorp, Inc. (VCI or the company) was incorporated as Interstate Protectors Corporation in 1983 in the State of Utah. The Company intends to embrace traditional and digital communication modes, to provide a new age of entertainment content and services to consumers and industry participants in the United States and around the world and to combine voice recognition technology with the traditional data base format used in electronic editing to provide the medical community with an advanced records keeping system.

Other entertainment projects

Red Skelton Program and Program Sequel: The Company entered into an agreement with Ms. Lothian Skelton pursuant to which the Company acquired the right to license, on an exclusive basis, the following: the existing library of 24 one-half hours videos of Red Skelton's NBC television show which first aired during the 1970 to 1971 season; a painting by Red Skelton; and historical photographs of Red Skelton, in order to enable the Company to distribute one set of Red Skelton's works (the Program) and one sequel to the set (the Program Sequel). The Program and Program Sequel are each contains approximately three one-hour videos, a colorful brochure describing Mr. Skelton's show business history, historical photographs of Mr. Skelton, and a print created from a painting by Red Skelton.

The Vox2data System: The Company's wholly owned subsidiary, Vox2Data, has developed a proprietary medical records system called Vox2Data. The Vox2Data System allows a physician to create a medical record by simply pushing a button and speaking into a microphone. The Vox2Data System combines voice recognition software, based upon the phonetic model, with the database format used in electronic claims editing. Immediate and accurate digital records of medical dictation are stored safely in a secure database, complete with the required coding data to assure error-free processing of medical insurance claims. The Vox2Data System eliminates transcription, minimizes human error, and allows physicians to use state-of-the-art technology to increase discretionary time.

The Vox2Data System includes a hand held microphone, integrated with a computer mouse, that provides instantaneous recording of the physician's voice and conversion to data. Portable tape recorders may also be utilized and played directly into any computer equipped with Vox2Data. During dictation the physician is guided with compliance and required information entries through the use of programmable and automated forms.

The Vox2Data System offers the following features: multiple physicians can utilize the same workstation; each physician has her own secure voice file on one or more workstations; workstations can be networked to provide for multiple locations for dictation; with each dictation, if the System detects anything new in either the voice or phonetic language model, an individual physician's voice file and vocabulary file are updated automatically; the System's automated recognition of new words is continuous during dictation; and demographic information from the hospital, skilled nursing facility, or physician's practice management system may interface, but is not required.

Markets

The Company's potential markets for vax2 Data System are Hospitals and Physicians and other health care providers such as Nursing and Residential Care Facilities and Social Assistance Service Providers.

Competition

In the Medical Records Industry, the company competes with MedQuist and MedLink Interactive, Inc. The Company's competitors in voice recognition market include AT&T, IBM, Motorola, Microsoft, Lernout & Hauspie, Dragon Systems Inc, e-DOCS.net and Philips Dictation Systems, a subsidiary of Philips Business Electronics NV.

The most direct competition comes from companies that offer products and service most similar to Vox2Data: Alma Information Systems markets TexTalk MD, ProVox Technologies markets TalkNotes™.

ANALYSIS FEATURES

SWOT Analysis

SWOT, which stands for Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats, is an analytical framework that identifies the internal and external factors that are favorable and unfavorable for a company.

Enhanced SWOT Analysis

Enhanced SWOT is a 3x3 grid that arranges strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats into one scheme:

How to use the strengths to take advantage of the opportunities?

How to use the strengths to reduce likelihood and impact of the threats?

How to overcome the weaknesses that obstruct taking advantage of the opportunities?

How to overcome the weaknesses that can make the threats a reality?

Upon answering these questions a company can develop a project plan to improve its business performance.

PESTEL Analysis

PESTEL (also termed as PESTLE) is an ideal tool to strategically analyze what influence different outside factors – political, economic, sociocultural, technological, environmental and legal – exert on a business to later chart its long term targets.

Being part of the external analysis when carrying out a strategic assessment or performing a market study, PESTEL gives an overview of diverse macro-environmental factors that any company should thoughtfully consider. By perceiving these outside environments, businesses can maximally benefit from the opportunities while minimizing the threats to the organization.

Key Factors Examined by PESTEL Analysis:

Political – What opportunities and pressures are brought by political bodies and what is the degree of public regulations' impact on the business?

Economic – What economic policies, trends and structures are expected to affect the organization, what is this influence's degree?

Sociological – What cultural and societal aspects will work upon the demand for the business's products and operations?

Technological – What impact do the technological aspects, innovations, incentives and barriers have on the organization?

Environmental – What environmental and ecological facets, both locally and farther afield, are likely to predetermine the business?

Legal – What laws and legislation will exert influence on the style the business is carried out?

IFE, EFE, IE Matrices

The Internal Factor Evaluation matrix (IFE matrix) is a strategic management tool helping audit or evaluate major weaknesses and strengths in a business's functional areas. In addition, IFE matrix serves as a basis for identifying and assessing relationships amongst those areas. The IFE matrix is utilised in strategy formulation.

The External Factor Evaluation matrix (EFE matrix) is a tool of strategic management that is typically utilised to assess current market conditions. It is an ideal instrument for visualising and prioritising the threats and opportunities a firm is facing.

The essential difference between the above mentioned matrices lies in the type of factors incorporated in the model; whilst the latter is engaged in internal factors, the former deals exceptionally with external factors – those exposed to social, political, economic, legal, etc. external forces.

Being a continuation of the EFE matrix and IFE matrix models, the Internal External matrix (IE matrix) rests upon an investigation of external and internal business factors integrated into one suggestive model.

Porter Five Forces Analysis

The Porter's five forces analysis studies the industry of operation and helps the company find new sources of competitive advantage. The analysis surveys an industry through five major questions:

What composes a threat of substitute products and services?

Is there a threat of new competitors entering the market?

What is the intensity of competitive rivalry?

How big is the bargaining power of buyers?

How significant is the bargaining power of suppliers?

VRIO Analysis

VRIO stands for Value, Rarity, Imitability, Organization. This analysis helps to evaluate all company's resources and capabilities and bring them together into one aggregate table that includes:

Tangible resources

Financial

Physical

Technological

Organizational

Intangible resources

Human

Innovation and Creativity

Reputation

Organizational capabilities

The result of the analysis gives a clear picture of company's competitive and economic implications, answering the questions if the resources mentioned above are:

Valuable?

Rare?

Costly to imitate?

Organized properly?
