Brokerage Operations

Commission Business: The most significant portion of the Company's revenues are derived from commissions generated by its brokerage activities in which the Company buys and sells securities for its customers from other dealers on an agency basis, and charges its customers a commission for its services. The Company's commission revenue is derived from brokerage transactions in listed and over-the-counter securities and mutual fund securities. The Company has agreements with numerous mutual fund management companies pursuant to which the Company sells shares in a variety of mutual funds.

Principal Transactions: A smaller portion of the Company's revenues are derived from principal trading activities in equity and fixed income securities, including merchant banking investments. As a principal, the Company buys and sells securities, both for proprietary trading and, more significantly, to facilitate sales to its retail customers and other dealers. These securities are purchased in secondary markets or from the underwriters of new issues. Principal transactions with customers are effected at a net price equal to the inter-dealer price plus or minus a mark-up or mark-down within the guidelines of applicable securities regulations.

Investment and Merchant Banking: Investment banking revenue is derived principally from underwriting fees, commissions and expense allowances, as well as the realization of gains from the exercise of warrants received in connection with underwriting public offerings or acting as placement agent in private offerings. In addition, the Company also is engaged from time to time as a financial consultant to other companies for which it generally receives a cash fee and warrants.

The Company also participates as a member of the underwriting syndicate and selling group member from time to time in unit trust and equity offerings.

Money Management: The Company established and maintains a Managed Asset Portfolio Program (MAPP) to manage the financial assets of its clients, for which it receives a quarterly management fee based upon the value of assets under management. The program's focus is to manage money to achieve long-term growth or income while attempting to limit risk. Economic conditions are monitored to determine which sectors perform well in order to strategically allocate assets to these sectors. Under the program, an individual portfolio plan is developed to fit each client's risk/reward relationship.

The Company was also engaged in money management activities through Greenleaf Management Corp., the manager of Greenleaf Capital Partners II, LLC, a private investment fund capitalized in June 1999 to invest in one or more selected companies and take advantage of investment opportunities that may arise.

Clearing Broker: The Company does not hold any funds or securities of its customers, but instead utilizes, on a fully disclosed basis, the services of Pershing LLC (a BNY Securities Group Co.) as its clearing broker. As a clearing broker, Pershing LLC processes securities transactions for Kirlin Securities and the accounts of its customers for which Kirlin Securities pays a fee.
