Report Scope

This report delves into the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) AI in healthcare markets, using 2023 as a benchmark year, and it is offering projections for the forecast period from 2024 to 2029, with estimations of compound annual growth rates (CAGR). The market size has been estimated from the perspective of AI use in the region's healthcare sector. This report covers various aspects of the market, including technological advances, economic factors, and business considerations, and provides insights into the different segments. The report delves into the key players engaged in healthcare AI industry, covering aspects such as technology, components, and applications specifically for the market in the Middle East and North Africa. It reveals market growth factors and examines regional dynamics influencing the market.

Turkey is excluded from the scope of this report as its AI in healthcare market is significantly more advanced than other countries in the MENA region. Including these markets would skew the analysis and not accurately reflect the unique opportunities and challenges the rest of the region faces. This approach ensures a focused examination of MENA's emerging AI in the healthcare landscape, which may be more relevant for companies seeking to expand into less mature markets.
