Report Scope:

This report studies both the global market and the regional markets for ingredients used in the cosmetics and toiletries industries. It also analyzes these markets by application and major material types. New patents and technological developments covered by these patents indicate the dynamic nature of the industry, and an analysis of these patents has been made in the report. As the newer ingredients increase in number, various regulatory and environmental issues are arising, and these issues must be addressed. A study of the existing regulations is presented in this report. Profiles of major end-user companies are also included, along with their market shares in their respective operational segments.

Report Includes:

123 data tables and 72 additional tables
