Most of the avocados in Mexico were exported to the United States before, and in recent years, as countries such as China, Japan, South Korea and India Love, the main exporter of avocado, began exporting large quantities of avocados to these countries, and these countries, especially China, began to develop their own avocado plantation.

The market for avocado and avocado oil in developing countries such as China is far from saturated and has huge market potential, so this is an excellent opportunity for avocado producers and avocados producers to expand their businesses.
