Abstracts

Global Barite Market is valued approximately at USD 1.19 Billion in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 3.7% over the forecast period 2021-2027. The barite that is mined is majorly used by petroleum industry as weighting material in the formulation of the drilling mud. The barite increases the hydrostatic pressure of drilling mud which allows to compensate the high-pressure zones experienced during the drilling process. The global Barite market is being driven by increased demand for oil and gas production and escalating barite demand in paints & coatings industry in various regions. Furthermore, emerging oil-producing regions, will provide new opportunities for the global Barite industry. For instance, according to U.S. Energy Information Administration, approximately 98.8 million barrels per day of liquids as well as petroleum were consumed in the month of July 2021, which represent an increase of 6 million barrels per day as compared to month of July 2020. As a result, increased in consumption of oil and petroleum products will necessitate the use of more Barite in the production of different oil and petroleum product, which will serve as a catalyst for the Barite industry in the future. However, availability of close substitutes, such as celestite and iron ore may impede market growth over the forecast period of 2021-2027.

Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World are the key region considered for the regional analysis of global Barite market. The growing population and enhanced standards of living have stimulated product demand makes the Asia Pacific the leading region across the world in terms of market share. . Whereas North America is also anticipated to exhibit the highest growth rate over the forecast period 2021-2027, due to the shifting consumer inclination for organic fabric and cotton in textile applications in the region.
