Global Barium Carbonate Market is valued at approximately USDXX million in 2021 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than XX% over the forecast period 2022-2028. Barium carbonate is a white powder that is insoluble in water and soluble in a variety of acids. It is a highly reactive material that helps in raising the refractive index and luster of glass. Barium carbonate is water-insoluble in nature and can be also used for the removal of efflorescence from tiles. It is gaining huge traction across manufacturing standard glass, brick, glazes, and tile industries. The thriving growth of the construction industry, rapid urbanization, and the increasing investment in infrastructural development are the several chief factors that are stimulating the global market demand. For instance, according to Statista, global construction investment (including commercial and residential infrastructure) is increasing in 2017, global construction spending was USD10.9 trillion, and it is anticipated to rise to USD 12.5 trillion by 2030. Therefore, the rising investment in the construction sector is likely to fuel the demand for barium carbonate, which, in turn, boosts market growth across the globe. However, the imposition of stringent regulations by the government on the application of barium carbonate and the toxic nature of barium and barium compounds obstruct the growth of the market over the forecast period of 2022-2028. Also, the rising adoption of the ceramic industry and economic development are anticipated to act as catalyzing factors for the market demand during the forecast period.

The key regions considered for the global Barium Carbonate Market study include Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and the Rest of the World. Asia-Pacific is the leading region across the world in terms of market share owing to the rising number of construction activities and rapid urbanization. Whereas, Europe is anticipated to exhibit a considerable growth rate over the forecast period 2022-2028. Factors such as the increasing investment in infrastructure development projects, as well as surging demand from the ceramic industry would create lucrative growth prospects for the Barium Carbonate Market across the Europe region.
