Global Beauty Supplements Market to reach USD 7.64 billion by 2025.

Global Beauty Supplements Market valued approximately USD 3.89 billion in 2017 is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 8.80% over the forecast period 2018-2025. Supplements consist of products that are used to enhance, improve, and offer support to any kind of deficiency in the human body. These are usually offered to the consumers in various different forms such as pills, capsules, soft gels, or even in powdered or liquid form. Beauty supplements are the combination of minerals, vitamins, nutritional ingredients, and other bioactive ingredients, which help in enhancing one's external outlook and appearance. Supplements are classified on the basis of type, namely, herbal supplements and natural supplements. Furthermore, supplements can be segmented based on their application such as beauty supplements, dietary supplements, weight control supplements, vitamin supplements, health supplements, energy supplements, weight gain supplements, memory supplements, probiotic supplements, high supplements, and others. Geographically, Asia-Pacific accounted for the highest share in global beauty supplements market and is expected to dominate the market over the forecast period. Japan is the largest market in Asia for beauty supplements closely followed by China and Korea which is fastest growing in Asia owing to rising interest of male population towards beauty supplements. Asia-Pacific is closely followed by Europe with more than 25% share in global beauty supplements market. Western European countries such as France, Germany and U.K among others accounted for major revenue share of more than 20% in global beauty supplements market. Europe beauty supplements market is majorly driven by the rising consumer concerns towards their health and their beauty appearance. Europe is closely followed by the North America owing to high disposable income and rising endorsement by celebrities.
