Abstracts

Global black pepper market is valued approximately USD XX billion in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 6.7 % over the forecast period 2020-2027. Black pepper is a potent hot-tasting powder spice prepared from dried and ground peppercorns, used to flavour food. It also contains significant antioxidants and has great nutritional value. Growing pretreated food industry directly influences black pepper market. In the year 2013-15 the global pepper consumption is estimated at around 400,000 tons and has been continuously increasing. Rise in usage of bakery products, and readily available food in the developed economies is boosting the market for the spice. Due to its anti-oxidant nature, it is also used as an ingredient in skin care products.

However, its increasing demand is not supported with sufficient supply, due to significant crop losses in different parts of the world. Also, unexpected climatic changes and unseasonal rainfall is likely to hinder the black pepper market.

The Regional analysis of the global black pepper market is considered for the key regions such as Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America and Rest of the world. Vietnam is the leading/significant region across the world in terms of market share owing to. Whereas, Asia-Pacific is also anticipated to exhibit highest growth rate /CAGR over the forecast period 2021-2027. Factors such as increasing living standard, advancement of food business and modification in way of living along with the wide spread of traditional medicine would create lucrative growth prospects for the black pepper market across Asia-Pacific region.
