Abstracts

Global Collagen Peptides Market is valued approximately USD 528.4 million in 2019 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 5.8 % over the forecast period 2020-2027. Collagen peptide is a normal protein produced in the body to avoid dermal layers of the skin from developing skin folds. Collagen peptide has rich source of protein and healthy nutrition to recover the health of bones. It is also used as cosmetic or medical collagen in diverse skin creams and treatments to reduce wrinkles and moisturize skin. The global Collagen Peptides market is facing challenges due to the coronavirus pandemic as temporary lockdown in various countries along with manufacturing as well as supply chain is at halt. However rising demand for collagen peptides for medical applications, increasing use of collagen peptides in the food & beverage industry as well as cosmetic and personal care products using collagen peptides are the few factors responsible for growth of the market over the forecast period. Moreover, the introduction of new products with Collagen Peptides and other strategic alliance by market key players will create a lucrative demand for this market. For instance: in October 2019, German based Gelita AG signed an agreement with US-based bio design company, Geltor for the development of first ingestible animal-free collagen proteins that will be launched in late 2020. In these agreement Geltor will design and produce the premium biodesigned collagen, while Gelita will conduct clinical research and commercialize the product. Whereas, consumer shift toward vegan diets is the major factor restraining the growth of global Collagen Peptides market during the forecast period.

The regional analysis of global Collagen Peptides market is considered for the key regions such as Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America and Rest of the World. Europe is the leading/significant region across the world owing to the technological advancements in this region.
