Abstracts

Global dental autoclave market is valued approximately at $XX million in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of about XX% over the forecast period 2021-2027. Dental autoclave refers to the sterilization devices that are used to disinfect dental instruments. These devices operate at high pressure and temperature in order to kill spores and microorganisms and are used to decontaminate various biological wastes as well as sterilize instruments, media, and lab ware. The global dental autoclave market is being driven by rising prevalence of dental disorders and dental cosmetic surgeries and rising patient awareness levels pertaining to sterilization across the globe. Furthermore, technological advancements and research and development will provide new opportunities for the global dental autoclave industry. For instance, according to the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), in 2020, researchers from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Indian Institute of Technology Bombay had come up with a method to sterilize (autoclave) medical tools in clinics, hospitals, and dentists' and doctors' offices using the power of sunlight and eliminating the need for electricity or fuel. The device would need a solar collector to power a small clinic autoclave and could maintain sterile, safe equipments at a low cost in remote locations. Such technological advancements in the autoclave devices are likely to increase its demand from the dental clinics which in turn would drive the market. However, high cost of dental autoclave procedure may impede market growth over the forecast period of 2021-2027.

The regional analysis of the global dental autoclave market is considered for the key regions such as Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World. North America is the leading region across the world in terms of market share due to increase in patient awareness related to oral health, presence of technologically established healthcare infrastructure, growth in healthcare expenditure, etc. in the region. Whereas Asia Pacific is anticipated to exhibit the highest growth rate over the forecast period 2021-2027, due to high incidences of dental disorders, increase in patient awareness, and improvement in the healthcare infrastructure in countries such as Japan, China, and India.
