Abstracts

Global Dog Dewormers Market is valued at approximately USDXX million in 2021 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than XX% over the forecast period 2022-2028. Dog Dewormers is an anthelmintic drug that is used to kill the parasites present in the dog such as heartworms, hookworms, roundworms, tapeworms, and others. The rising canine population along with their ownership, increasing incidences of worm infections among dogs, coupled with the growing spending on dogs are several key factors fostering the market demand across the globe. For instance, according to the National Pet Owners Survey (2019-20) conducted by the American Pet Products Association (APPA), more than 85 million households in the United States had one or more pets, of which 63.4 million households own dogs as pets, this, in turn, contributes as 74.6% of the country's total pet-owning households. Accordingly, the rising inclination toward canine adoption among the population is bolstering the market demand, which drives market growth in the impending years. However, the execution of stringent government regulations and several side-effects associated with dewormers impede the growth of the market over the forecast period of 2022-2028. Also, the rising investment in R&D activities and development of new as well as existing products and the growing availability of well-established veterinary care infrastructure facilities are anticipated to act as catalyzing factors for the market demand during the forecast period.

The key regions considered for the global Dog Dewormers Market study include Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and the Rest of the World. North America is the leading region across the world in terms of market share owing to the growing number of veterinarians and increasing expenditure on dogs. Whereas, Europe is anticipated to exhibit the highest CAGR over the forecast period 2022-2028. Factors such as the growing prevalence of parasitic infections among dogs, as well as rise in the number of veterinary hospitals and clinics, would create lucrative growth prospects for the Dog Dewormers Market across the European region.
