Abstracts

Global Food Service Market is valued approximately at USD XX billion in 2019 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than XX% over the forecast period 2020-2026. The food service companies are facing reduced business as well as disrupted supply chains, as at-home consumption has increased but out-of-home consumption that generates highest margin has come to standstill. There may be a long-term changes likely to be seen in customer behavior and demand due to Covid-19. Food service refers to the distribution of food and beverages that are prepared for immediate consumption or for takeaways and home deliveries. Foodservice outlets are commercial establishments which include fast-food restaurants, catering, nightclubs and recreational outlets and Non-commercial outlets includes food operations that run inside the premises of an organizations such as schools, hospitals, military bases, etc. The rising demand for cafes, restaurants and boutique food places as well as Hectic work schedules and increasing popularity of mobile foodservice outlets, especially food trucks are the few factors responsible for growth of the market over the forecast period. Furthermore, introduction of innovative products and other strategic alliance by various market player will create a lucrative demand for this market. For instance, as per company's news release in June 2019, Compass Group Plc announced an agreement with Fazer Group to acquire Fazer Food Services for around USD $518 million. This acquisition will allow Compass Group to expand its innovative solutions for its clients and consumers as well as both the companies will focus on high quality food and outstanding customer services. However, mobile foodservice outlets is the major factor opportunistic the growth of global Food Service market during the forecast period.
