Abstracts

Global Gas Water Heater Market is valued approximately at USD 29.36 Billion in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 4% over the forecast period 2021-2027. The technology behind gas water heater is that water moves through a gas pipeline or cylinder, which passes through a heat exchanger which has water pipes covered with fins. These fins are heated up which in turn heats the water. Increasing demand of hot water from residential applications such as bathing, washing, cleaning and cooking is driving the market for the gas water heater market. Government norms and mandates which regulates the use of energy efficient heating appliances in all new buildings and public establishments is also augmenting the market growth. In order to meet the increased demand of energy, government of India for instance enacted the Energy Conservation Act, 2001 and established the Bureau of Energy Efficiency in March 2002. The act strengthen the delivery mechanism for energy efficiency services in the country and provides much needed coordination between various entities. But high installation cost of the gas water heater is restraining the market growth for the product. Also, availability of counterparts such as electric water heaters will also slow down the market growth. However, technological advancements such as remote monitoring, AI enabled UI display and Wi-Fi enabled connectivity is expected to give opportunity to the market in the forecasted period and augment the growth. Products having high water holding capacity, instant supply of hot water and un-compromised water pressure are being developed by the market players which will be both highly efficient and cost effective which is set to give opportunities to the market.

The key regions such as Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World are considered for the regional analysis of global Gas Water Heater Market. Asia Pacific is expected to be the largest and the fastest growing region in the gas water heater market during the forecast period because of major contributions from countries such as China, Japan, India and Australia. North America is expected to be the fastest growing region after APAC.
