Abstracts

Global Herbal Extracts in Nutraceuticals Market is valued approximately USD XX billion in 2021 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than XX % over the forecast period 2022-2028. Herbal Extracts refers to substance which are extracted from herbal plants, with the help of a solvent like methanol or water. Due to their medicinal and nutritional properties herbal extracts are widely used as dietary supplements and medicine and it is also used as flavoring agent in food and beverages. Growing demand for dietary supplements and rising therapeutic applications of herbal extracts are key drivers for the growth of Herbal Extracts in Nutraceuticals market. For instance, according to global Database Management Company Statista- in 2021, global dietary supplements market was estimated at around USD 137 billion and as per projections the market is estimated to be worth over USD 185.1 billion. Also, with the growing research and development activities in pharmaceuticals sector and rising disposable income coupled with changing lifestyle pattern, the adoption & demand for Herbal Extracts in Nutraceuticals is likely to increase the market growth during the forecast period. However, high cost of herbal extract-based solutions and availability of alternatives may hamper the growth of the market over the forecast period of 2022-2028.

The key regions considered for the global Herbal Extracts in Nutraceuticals Market study includes Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World. North America is the leading region across the world in terms of market share owing to growing preference towards plant-based products in the region. Whereas Asia-Pacific is also anticipated to exhibit highest growth rate over the forecast period
