Abstracts

Global Licorice Extract Market is valued at approximately USD XX billion in 2021 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 4.75% over the forecast period 2022-2028. Licorice extracts and roots have been used for thousands of years, notably in Asia, to cure several diseases such as digestive trouble, respiratory disorders, and inflammation. Licorice contains about 300 chemicals, many of which have anti-viral, anti-microbial, and anti-inflammatory activities. The market growth is driven by key factors such as growing demand for natural and organic products and increasing demand for plant-based natural ingredients. For instance, as per Statista, in 2017, organic food sales in the United States amounted to around USD 45.2 billion. which is increased to USD 56.5 billion in 2020. Furthermore, rising investment in research and development propels the market opportunities in the forecast years. Naturex announced in March 2019 that it could invest in coloring meals with Vegebrite Ultimate Spirulina. A new extraction line, which triples spirulina production capacity, has been installed at the company's Avignon, France, production location. However, increase in the cost of raw materials impede the growth of the market over the forecast period of 2022-2028.

The key regions considered for the global Licorice Extract Market study include Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World. Europe is leading the global market, owing to growing applications of licorice along with scarcity in production. However, North America is projected to be the fastest growing region, due to rising occurrence of various habitual disorders, such as diabetes and obesity.
