Abstracts

Global Non-destructive Testing Market is valued approximately at USD 573.57 Million in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 4.40% over the forecast period 2021-2027. Non-destructive testing is a technique used to evaluate the properties of a material, structure, component or system for characteristic differences or welding defects and discontinuities without causing damage to the original part. Hike in demand for flaw detection owing to increasing automation in the industrial manufacturing, government norms regarding safety of equipment and regular inspections, and new product launch by market players are fueling demand in the market. As per the norms penned by Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), according to rule 1919.15(c), all hoisting machines (e.g., cranes, winches, blocks, shackles, and all other accessory gear), shall be thoroughly examined every 12 months by means of a visual examination, supplemented as necessary by other means, such as a hammer test or with electronic, ultrasonic, or other nondestructive methods. Furthermore, growing investment in research by market players and rising awareness regarding use of non-destructive testing among manufacturers are expected to inject growth in coming years. Such as, in February 2021, Ashtead Technology invested USD 1.37 million to develop a new research and engineering facility in Aberdeenshire.

However, high equipment cost and lack of skilled professionals may hinder the demand in near future.

North America is the dominating region among Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World, owing to availability of skilled professionals and adoption of non-destructive techniques across various applications. Whereas, Asia Pacific is expected to grow with the significant growth rate during forecast period owing to growing manufacturing, construction and power generation activities in the region. Major market player included in this report are:

Ashtead Technology Ltd.
Eddyfi
Fischer Technologies Inc.
General Electric
Nikon Metrology Inc.
Mistras Group, Inc.
Olympus Corporation
