Abstracts

Global Polyurethane Foam Market is valued approximately USD 35.2 billion in 2019 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 7.5 % over the forecast period 2020-2027. Polyurethane is a type of polymer or plastic, available in the flexible or rigid form. The polyurethane foam provides excellent dielectric and adhesive properties for protecting the product. It has the resistant property for abrasion, water, temperature, impact and weather. Polyurethane (PU) foams are used in for the development of resilient foam applications such as insulation panels, gaskets, tires, adhesives, and others. The growing demand for polyurethane foam from various end-use industries in emerging economies, increased use of polyurethane foams in building insulations for energy conservation and versatility and unique physical properties of polyurethane foams are the few factors responsible for growth of the market over the forecast period. Furthermore, the introduction of products and other strategic alliance by the market players will create a lucrative demand for the market. For instance: on 03rd March 2020, Future Foam has acquired polyurethane foam pouring facilities based in Washington, Tupelo Mississippi, Elkhart, Indiana, Kent, and a foam fabrication facility in Kent, Washington. This acquisition will expand the market position of Future Foam company in the global polyurethane foam market. However, the stringent environmental regulations related to manufacturing of polyurethane foams is the major factor restraining the growth of global Polyurethane Foam market during the forecast period.

The regional analysis of global Polyurethane Foam market is considered for the key regions such as Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America and Rest of the World.
