Abstracts

Global Systemic Scleroderma Treatment Market is valued approximately at USD 1.46 billion in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 4% over the forecast period 2021-2027. Systemic scleroderma is an autoimmune disorder that affects the skin and internal organs and occurs when immune system malfunctions and starts attacking body's own tissue and organs. Growing prevalence of systemic scleroderma is increasing the demand for therapies used to treat the symptoms and grant of supplemental approvals for existing treatment options along with the therapies that are under development are growing the demand in the market. For instance, in September 2020, U.S. FDA assigned, Orphan Drug Designation to Kadmon Holdings Inc. for its novel drug candidate, Belumosudil (KD025), which is developed for the treatment of systemic sclerosis. Similarly, in 2019, Boehringer Ingelheim International GmbH's product - Ofev (nintedanib) – got approval from U.S. FDA for treatment of patients with Systemic Sclerosis with Interstitial Lung Disease (SSc-ILD). Furthermore, growing focus of biotechnology industries towards developing new therapies for the treatment of systemic scleroderma is expected to fuel the demand in coming years. However, lack of validated results and failure of clinical trials are expected to curb the growth during forecast period.

Among Asia Pacific, North America, Europe, Latin America, and Rest of the World, North America is the significant region across the world in terms of market share due to rising prevalence of systemic scleroderma in the region. Whereas Europe is anticipated to exhibit the highest growth rate over the forecast period 2021-2027, due to higher usage of generics and biosimilars for off-label systemic scleroderma therapy. Major market player included in this report are:

Boehringer Ingelheim International GmbH
