Abstracts

Global Tourette syndrome Treatment Market is valued approximately at USD XX billion in 2020 and is anticipated to grow with a healthy growth rate of more than 10.41% over the forecast period 2021-2027. Tourette syndrome is a neuropsychiatric disorder that manifests itself via physical and vocal tics. Tics are non-rhythmic, repetitive movements of a single muscle group that are caused by a genetic mutation that prevents the brain from producing histamine. The primary cause of Tourette syndrome is a disruption in the balance of neurotransmitters in the brain, which transmit nerve signals from cell to cell. This condition is related to the use of obscene words or making socially inappropriate statements. Tourette syndrome is a child and adolescent hereditary disease. The market is driven by rising focus on Tourette Syndrome research and increasing cases of Tourette Syndrome. According to CDC research, one in every 360 (0.3 percent) children aged 6 to 17 in the United States has been diagnosed with TS, totaling about 138,000 children. In addition, 37% of children diagnosed with TS have been reported to have moderate or severe diseases or conditions. The CDC is also cooperating with the Tourette Association of America to expand access to CBIT (Comprehensive Behavioral Intervention for Tics), provide education and outreach, improve acceptance and reduce stigma through the Tourette Association Youth Ambassador Program, and provide resources to help individuals and families living with Tourette, such as school resources.

However, lack of awareness in developing region may impede market growth over the forecast period of 2021-2027.

North America dominates the global Tourette syndrome market due to the presence of a larger number of important players such as Catalyst Pharmaceutical Partners, Inc., AstraZeneca PLC, and Otsuka Holdings Co., Ltd in the region. Europe is the second-
