Abstracts

The global veterinary dental equipment market is projected to reach USD 541.87 million by 2027 from USD 308.1 million in 2020, at a CAGR of 8.4% during the forecast period. Growing population of global companion animals, rising numbers of veterinary practitioners and growing incidences of veterinary dental problems are major factors contributing to the market growth. According to a National Pet Owners Survey (2019–2020) conducted by the American Pet Products Association (APPA), an estimated 67% of US households, or about 84.9 million families, owned a pet. However, increasing cost of pet care can hinder the market growth. Also, growing adoption of companion animals in developing nations is expected to create growth opportunities for the market.

Geographically, the global veterinary dental equipment market is segmented into five major regions: North America, Europe, Asia Pacific, Latin America, and Middle East & Africa. North America is expected to dominate the global veterinary dental equipment market in the forecast period. This is mainly due to the increasing number of pet animals in the U.S. and Canada and the presence of key manufacturers in the region.
