Report Overview

Antioxidant Skincare is a category of skincare products that are specifically formulated to combat the harmful effects of free radicals on the skin. These products contain ingredients with antioxidant properties, such as vitamins C and E, green tea extract, and other botanicals, which work to neutralize free radicals that can cause oxidative stress and contribute to premature aging, skin damage, and inflammation. Antioxidant skincare products are designed to protect the skin from environmental aggressors like pollution and UV radiation, promote skin health and vitality, and may also support the skin's natural repair processes. They are often recommended for individuals with concerns related to aging, sun damage, and overall skin wellness.
