Abstracts

Scattered off-road shoes focus on reflecting the touch of feet to the ground, reducing the excessive control of traditional running shoes, so that the feet can move more freely and achieve the best comfort, and this simple way allows runners to pay more attention to their way of running, and pay attention to increasing their own strength and control. Generally speaking, they advocate the running habit of landing on the forefoot. Simple running shoes are designed with widened toes, so that the feet can have better grip and feel.
