Report Overview

Crizotinib Capsules is a pharmaceutical product that belongs to the class of drugs known as tyrosine kinase inhibitors. It is specifically formulated to target and inhibit the activity of certain enzymes, known as anaplastic lymphoma kinase (ALK) and c-ros oncogene 1 (ROS1), which are involved in the development and progression of certain types of cancer, particularly non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC). The capsules are designed for oral administration, allowing patients to take the medication in a convenient and non-invasive manner. Crizotinib works by blocking the action of these enzymes, thereby preventing the growth and spread of cancer cells. This targeted therapy approach is aimed at minimizing damage to healthy cells, thus potentially reducing side effects compared to traditional chemotherapy. The product is subject to strict regulatory approval processes to ensure its safety and efficacy for the treatment of specified cancer types.
