Abstracts

Dental Silver diamine fluoride is clear, topical liquid that can be used to treat tooth decay as well as tooth sensitivity. It is a quick, simple and effective way of slowing and stopping the progression of tooth decay when used as part of a wider tooth decay prevention strategy e.g. controlling sugars in the diet and brushing with a fluoride toothpaste. The SDF liquid is applied to the problem area of the tooth by the dentist. It releases silver and fluoride ions over time which act to slow / stop the advancement of the tooth decay and / or reduce sensitivity. Dental hospitals and clinics are the main application areas. The demand for dental silver diamine fluoride in dental hospitals and clinics will continue to increase in the next few years. As people pay more attention to oral health and the incidence of dental caries remains high, more and more patients will receive treatment related to silver diamine fluoride in dental hospitals and clinics. It has the advantages of low cost, easy use, and no need to remove dental caries, which makes it have high cost performance and application value in dental treatment. It is favored by dentists and patients and promotes the development of the market. Dental silver diamine fluoride may cause side effects such as permanent black staining of teeth, which to a certain extent affects the acceptance of some patients and creates certain obstacles to market promotion.

The global Dental Silver Diamine Fluoride market size was estimated at USD 164.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.70% during the forecast period.
