Abstracts

Account Based Ticketing (ABT) refers to a modern fare collection system in public transportation where fares are calculated based on the actual journey taken by a passenger, rather than a fixed fee or pre-purchased ticket, with transactions processed through a centralized account linked to a payment method such as a bank account, credit card, or digital wallet. This system leverages contactless smart cards, mobile devices, or wearables as tokens to record entry and exit points, enabling dynamic, distance-based or zonal pricing, automatic capping to ensure passengers never pay more than a daily or weekly limit, and seamless integration across multiple modes of transport, such as buses, trains, and ferries, without the need for separate tickets or fare media for each leg of the journey.

The global Account Based Ticketing market size was estimated at USD 11250.0 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12.50% during the forecast period.
